MINISTERIAL VACATIONS.

There is always something practical about David Swing. He is just as sensible as he can be. He shows up the humbuggery of some of these summer "vacations" taken by prominent ministers. For instance, on Talmage he says: "Dr. Talmage lectures all summer by way of rest and peace. Eternal travel with a big fee at each town hall avails to compose a rest. Lecturing is his hammock. Three hundred dollars a night constitute a lemonade with a straw in it."

So it seems that Talmage does not so much desire rest as the opportunity to make money. "After evening in that oratorical hammock thirty evenings he reaches Brooklyn in September a healthier and happier man by a large amount. What a glorious rest is a pocketful of money." His salary goes on at Brooklyn just the same as if he was there, so in the summer "vacation" he lets the gospel take care of itself, while he gathers in his three hundred dollars a day for his lecture. Dr. Talmage is a powerful preacher, well trained in the art of working upon the feelings of his hearers, but like hundreds of other prominent ministers he has lost all regard for the primitive plan of preaching the gospel. Not satisfied with twelve thousand a year in a salary, his whole vacation is spent in money getting.

The world will say this is all right, so it is if it has no regard for consistency or the man's calling. It is a good deal like Francis Murphy lecturing on temperance; when he answers a letter requesting his terms, he will say "two hundred dollars a night. Yours for Christ." Mr. Murphy should be honest and leave off the last sentence, or change it to match the facts, "Yours for two hundred dollars a night." When one reads the sermon on the mount and then reads the terms of such men as De Witt Talmage and Francis Murphy, he will find out that there is more than the "wideness of the sea" between them. We well remember when Mr. Hammond, the noted revivalist, made an arrangement to hold a series of meetings at $150 a week in a certain town, and a neighboring town thought it was just as worthy of being saved as the one-hundred-and-fifty-dollar town and offered him two hundred which was promptly accepted.

These facts illustrate how far many of the modern preachers and the so-called reformers are removed from the line of thought and the motives of labor of the one whose life and work, should in part at least, be their example.

Mr. Lumley, a sport of New York, has sent a polite invitation to Colonel Elliott, F. Shepard, of the New York Mail and Express to attend the reception to be given to John L. Sullivan. In the invitation is this paragraph:

Your presence on this occasion will add a dignity to the affair, which, perhaps, it would not otherwise possess, and will also assure the public at large that the religious element in our society and the school of ideas represented by the scientific development of human muscle are in entire harmony with each other. Colonel Shepard likes the bravery of Lumley, and thanks him for his courtesy, and then adds: "The scientific development of human muscle need not be accompanied with gambling, nor its display confined to the castigation of the human body. The kind of 'religious element of society' which is 'in entire harmony with' bruising, slugging, prize fighting, murder-if-necessary development, must be more than a thousand times further removed from true religion than equifortis is from pure milk."

We don't want to be understood as defending all Sunday newspapers. The Sunday Press, of New York, for example, owned and edited by Mr. Robert Porter, superintendent of the census under President Harrison, is not a Sunday paper that can be defended. It is an unclean. "New York's dens of iniquity. Read the shocking revelations in next Sunday's Press." Such revelations are not meant to correct evil, but to supply inordinate reading. It is corrupting. The Sunday edition of the Tribune, the Journal and the Sun are decent and instructive. —Milwaukee Sentinel.

This paragraph brings to mind the loud promises made by the New York Press when it was founded as its character as a family newspaper. It was to be even more righteous than its brethren and represent the highest quality of social and political morals. But it seems that the old man Adam has got the advantage of the Press. Mr. Porter's success in obtaining office seems to have turned his head and made the Press reckless.

The republican administration is growing in favor among a certain class of office-seekers. As an illustration: "A gentleman from Iowa, who had waited patiently for an office that never came, met an office-seeking friend from Missouri at the Arlington. 'What do you think of the cabinet?' asked the Iowa man. 'Well, if you mean by the cabinet,' replied the man from Missouri, 'those fellows Clarkson and Tanner, who are chopping off democratic heads by the hundred, why, I say they are simply Jim Dandies.'"

Our democratic friends want Blaine to get mad and resign. But Blaine never does anything to please the democrats, and herein is his shrewdness and good sense. A Washington dispatch says that Secretary Rusk being asked about the rumor sent out Saturday night that Secretary Blaine had tendered his resignation to the president, to take effect September 1st, replied sententiously, but conclusively: "All nonsense." Other equally well informed persons repeat this statement. The whole story appears to be simply a dull summer season sensation. Evidently Rusk struck the nail squarely on the head.

The Frenchman who said he would pay $111,000 for Millet's "The Angelus," will likely fail to get it. So the American offer of $143,000 including duty, may possibly be accepted.

By the way, congress ought to remove the duty on imported paintings and engravings. On these two articles the tariff is a "robber" indeed.

The New York Herald alleges that "Mr. Harrison is being worn out physically," and intimates that his "unstrung nerves" produce a regrettable state of irresolubility. It took so to a republican the Mr. Harrison has pretty good nerves and that his physical condition is excellent. The work of restoring republicans to office goes bravely on.

The state government of Maine has lately succeeded in placing a $2,500,000 loan at 3 per cent which moves the Bankers Monthly to say: "We have already ventured the assertion that the federal government could turn over its remaining debt at 2 per cent, and save the national bank system for another generation."

TRIED TO BREAK THE BANK.

A Wealthy New York Man Unsuccessful. LONG BRANCH, N. Y., July 15.—Another heavy loss at gambling has just leaked out. It was not a case of robbery, but of square playing.

Wednesday night the habits of John Dwyer, a French club, were greatly excited over an attempt to break the bank. One of the best known Hebrews of New York sat down at the wheel to make or lose his fortune before the roulette wheel. He was a dealer in a wholesale sale straw-goods dealer and had had red and black play. On many occasions he had lost $7,000 or $8,000 in the early part of the night, but always managed to retrieve his losses before the morning. When he arose from the table Thursday morning he had lost $11,000. This is the heaviest "square" loss of the season so far and the incident causes much talk.

Organizing a Leather Trust.

NEWARK, N. J., July 15.—Arrangements are making to form a leather syndicate or trust here. This city is the center for patent leather, nine-tenths of that made in this country being manufactured here. Preliminary steps are being taken so that when George A. Halsey and Samuel Howell return from Europe the trust will be ready to go into operation.

HERMAN PROBST, who murdered his mother and then shot himself July 3, has died at the Jersey City hospital.

EDWARD MEYER, a "fishshoreman," was shot and killed at New Orleans by George Ely, a gambler.

The Closing of an Important Outlet.

The blockade of a port is not more injurious to its commerce than is even the temporary obstruction of the bowels to the health of the system. Constipation necessarily arrests the secretion of bile, impedes and disorders digestion, and poisons the circulation. The safest and most effective as it is also the most general, laxative and anti-bilious medicine in existence is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters; it is more than probable that its sovereign efficacy as a preventative and remedy for intermittent and remittent fever, largely due to its reforming action upon the liver, an organ prejudicially involved in all malarial complaints. Persons with a tendency also to rheumatism, neuralgia, headache, indigestion, constipation, biliousness, and all the ailments better than to antagonize it with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which invariably checks it at the outset. The weak, moreover, are invested with strength by this fine invigorant.

ALBANY.

A grand excursion and picnic is announced for Friday next, the objective point being Albany, Ruben's cave and the parks, where the Sabbath schools from Janesville, Evansville and Breckhead will join those from Albany in a grand picnic and celebration. The steamer Mikako will convey excursionists to the grounds, making quick trips from an early hour in the morning for a sitting picnic and later on for the accommodation of visitors who may arrive by train.

The E. S. & L. A. excursion to Ruben's Cave on Saturday was a very enjoyable affair. At 100 a. m. the steamer Mikako left the wharf with a goodly number on board for a day's outing in the groves. Arriving at Camp Holliday, the order was given to start the camp fire, which order was duly executed on the top of P. Crossen, an old time in camp service, and very soon the savory smell of hot coffee was fragrant on the air. In the meantime busy hands had spread the tables in the camp dining hall and a bountiful repast awaited the party. It was indeed a banquet. As in the good old days, so on this occasion did one and all partake of the tempting viands with that businesslike push commensurate to the inner man, and far removed from a spirit of mincing, a wide with course, according to the prevailing notions of dame fashion, now-a-days. Dinner over, passing events soon chimed in the tune for a feast of good things in the way of literary exercises which occupied a portion of the time. The excursionists returned to the city in the afternoon well pleased with the trip and the enjoyment afforded on the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Gardner, of Broadhead, visited over Sunday with Mr. J. E. Annie's family.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Smith, of Madison, Dakota, are here for a few weeks visit, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Warner.

Mrs. Kane, of Topoka, Kansas, is making a brief visit with friends here at her former home, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Hall.

The heavy rain storm on Friday afternoon did not do serious damage here as far as reported. The storm was more central to the northeast of this place.

AN OHIO TOWN DESTROYED.

PRINCETON SADLY WRECKED BY A TORNADO.

Fifty People Reported Killed and Injured and Not a House Left Standing—Other Disasters.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 15.—A tornado Sunday afternoon wrecked the little village of Princeton, six miles east of Hamilton, and brought death to many of the residents. A report received from Hamilton says that fifty people were killed or injured. Not a house escaped damage, and some of them were blown entirely away. Shortly before 4 o'clock a heavy black cloud passed eastward and to the side of Hamilton, just missing the city. Turning sharply in its track the storm came back and passed directly over Hamilton. The high wind was accompanied by a flood and did great damage to trees. It was this storm which demolished the village of Princeton, striking the place a little after 4 o'clock. The most imposing building in the village, the new brick school house, was swept entirely away. There are some twenty or more dwellings in the place, which had a population of 200. Every house was more or less wrecked and several of them entirely destroyed. In some instances not a trace of the structure was left on the spot. The news was brought to Hamilton by persons sent for assistance.

A violent storm of wind and rain also visited Cincinnati, but spent its force mainly on the base ball grounds, where 6,000 people had assembled to witness a game between the Cincinnati and Brooklyn clubs. The grounds and stands were flooded with water in a few minutes, and the wind came in a fearful whirl and knocked down 500 feet of the fence at the northeast corner of the grounds, where the stands stood, and just missed the club house. The tornado then passed into the open valley of the Mill Creek. The grand stand, which was packed with frightened spectators, rocked ominously, but held its place. The houses and several vehicles were buried under the great fence, but were extricated by the players, while several horses broke loose and racing across the diamond, huddled under the stands for protection. A wild scene ensued. Maddened animals dashed into the grounds and flew over the turf at a tremendous pace. In the grand stand women and children screamed with fright. Just as the big crowd began to rise, a grand stand was ripped into shreds, and a wild rush for exit began under the impression that the roof was going. A dozen people were hurt, but none seriously. Six carriages were completely demolished and one horse was killed. The damage at the grounds amount to $2,000. The tempest lasted only twenty minutes, but in that brief period it spread a consternation among thousands. After the wind had spent its force the rainfall continued with unabated fury for almost an hour. For three or four hours before the terrible storm thick black clouds loomed up the western horizon and thousands of men, women and children were on the hillsides, and it is remarkable that fatalities resulted from the tornado. The storm followed a path of Liberty and Freeman streets a street car was stopped by the force of the wind. The air whirled all the trees were outside Cincinnati. Houses were swept away and great damage was done to crops. Telegraph wires are down in all directions.

TWO MEN DROWNED.

A Pond at Pittsburg, Pa., Breaks, with Serious Results.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 15.—A pond, a body of water at the corner of Center street and Schott street in the hill district, caused by the choking of a sewer, swept the barriers away about 2 o'clock Sunday morning, drowning two men and injuring three others. The drowned were JOHN DAILY, 38 years unmarried, and ANDREW MCGREGOR, aged 36 years, married.

THE DEADLY GRIP.

One Passenger Killed and Several Injured by a Fall.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 14.—On the Vine street hill and Clifton cable road Sunday afternoon a gripman got off his car at the power house in Corvillie and put his train of two cars in the hands of a boy for the trip to Clifton. Both cars were full and at Eichler's garden, on the borders of Clifton, the conductor released the cable had tried to stop. The cars rushed down the steep grade with a screeching noise. He tried the brake and it was broken. Then he tried his grip, but it refused to grasp the cable. Just then some one shouted, "Jump." Women began to scream and jump off. People jumped on each other. Mrs. Julia Tighe of this city had her neck broken and died immediately. Thomas F. Conboy of Cincinnati, had an arm broken and was otherwise dangerously hurt. Six others were hurt, some of them quite badly. They uniformly refused to give their names. The company has several physicians employed, trying to hunt them down. No one would have been hurt had all remained on the car, as it was stopped within fifty yards by a grip car in front of it.

ELEVEN SAILORS DROWNED.

The Steamer Rapel, from Valparaiso, a Total Wreck—Several Saved.

New York, July 15.—A letter from Panama, under date of July 4, says: "On the 30th of April the steamer Rapel left Valparaiso for Montevideo and Buenos Ayres. A telegram has been received from Castro announcing the total loss of the vessel and eleven of her crew. According to the telegram the Rapel struck on the rocks at Huamplin of Socorro island on the 28th, at 3 p. m., and went down immediately. The lost crew were: Chief engineer: R. Elliott, purser: R. Schneider, second officer, and eight of the firemen and crew. Capt. Carnap, the chief officer, the second engineer, and three of the crew have arrived at Castro. The other surviving sailors remained on the island awaiting succor."

Killed on a Crossing.

CLINTON, Iowa, July 15.—Mrs. Fred Burkshaw and two girls residing south of Lowmore, twelve miles from here, and Miss Mary Buckman and her little brother, of Lowmore, were returning Saturday from a shopping trip to Clinton in a spring wagon and while ascending the cross the Chicago & Northwestern railway four miles east of this city were run into by a fast east-bound freight. The front end of the wagon was struck, killing both horses instantly and maiming Mrs. Burkshaw so that she also shortly after "went." Miss Buckman, who was driving, was also badly injured. The children were but slightly hurt.

A Blaze in Michigan.

COLDWATER, Mich., July 15.—Fire broke out in W. L. Lyman's Sons furniture factory Saturday morning, destroying the machinery and contents. Estimated loss on building and stock, $6,500; fully insured.

Sundry Mishaps.

The little son of the Hon. A. B. Campbell, formerly of Rushville, Ind., was instantly killed by an electric street car at Topeka, Kan.

At St. Joseph, Mo., the warehouses of the Consolidated Tannery Line company, containing 400 barrels of gasoline burned. The loss is $30,000, fully covered by insurance.

The Brule & Leith creamery at Waverly, Iowa, burned. It is thought to be the work of an incendiary. Loss $4,000, no insurance.

THOMAS FULTON and his cousin, Miss Ella Ault, were killed by a Baltimore & Ohio freight train near Bellair, Ohio, while riding in a freight train.

MR. BLAINE WILL STICK.

The Secretary of State Does Not Intend to Resign.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—A Sunday paper announces that Mr. Blaine has tendered his resignation to the president and that it has been accepted to take place on Sept. 1, and then it goes on to say:

"It is a well-known fact that the health of Mr. Blaine during the last four months has been of considerable worry to his family and his immediate friends, and it is upon the advice of his physicians that he takes this step. The work in the State Department has been very hard, and Mr. Blaine always gave his personal attention to all important official matters. It can readily be seen that the strain was more than he could stand. It is understood that every Hon. A. K. Kossow, the distinguished diplomat, who was one of the commission to negotiate the recent Samoan treaty at Berlin, will be the successor of Mr. Blaine in the State Department."

All the foregoing is doubtless true, but Mr. Blaine has not resigned; he will not resign; he never had any intention of resigning, and such an act never occurred to him or to the President as within the range of possibility. He believes that his physicians have told him that a summer's rest and recreation will restore him to health. He is the only head of a department who has found time to leave very important duties, but he has gone, and remains away with the consent and encouragement of the President. Mr. Blaine manages to keep a pretty close knowledge of what is going on in the department of State, and he directs everything at long range. His son Walker keeps going back and forth between New York and Washington, and on every Monday Mr. Blaine has a long copious memorandum as to affairs of importance concerning which the instructions of the secretary are needed. He returned here on Sunday from New York, and on Friday he left again for that place with a satchel full of papers and a long list of items written on a slip of paper for oral information. The mails and the telegraph are also kept in touch. He believes he is avoiding the seat of Washington and the office-seekers, and is getting the benefit of the coolest breezes that blow in this zone, he is by no means idle.

WILL THERE BE A STRIKE?

An Important Question Now Being Considered by the Engineers.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 15.—About 400 representatives of the local Brotherhood of Engineers of the State assembled in this city Sunday and held a secret meeting at the State House. Little could be learned as to the object of the meeting, but it is thought preliminary steps were taken for the annihilation of the Brotherhood with other railroad organizations and Chief Arthur was present and addressed the men, but he is understood to be opposed to annihilation. What decision was reached by the delegates cannot be ascertained. A well-known railroad official said, however, that it had been known in railroad circles for some time that the engineers are dissatisfied with the outcome of the strike on the Burlington system, and it has been understood that this meeting was to consider the best plan of retrieving their former power. To do this it is thought a general strike of the engineers and firemen on every western road was proposed. This, of course, was strenuously denied by the officers of the brotherhood, but there seems to be good grounds for believing this move was discussed. Representatives of the brotherhood as far east as Ohio and from the western States were present.

THE CRIMINAL RECORD.

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY NEAR

BOSTON.

Three Lives Sacrificed Through the Act of a Frenzied Man—Killings in Michigan—Several Suicides.

BOSTON, Mass., July 15.—A horrible tragedy was enacted at Somerville at an early hour this morning. The victims are

Mrs. Catherine Smith, aged 45, her son

Thomas, aged 14, and the perpetrator of the terrible deed, Augustus Rosenberg, while two other children of the Smith were injured, one of whom will die.

The murderer had been living with the Smiths for about a year. It is supposed that a recent quarrel over financial affairs was the chief cause of the tragedy. The scene of the shooting was the house at the corner of Dane street and Dane court,

Somerville. The ground floor is used as a provision and grocery store, the business having been carried on by Mrs. Smith since the disappearance of her husband, Charles

Smith, who is supposed to have been committed suicide by jumping from the Portland steamer about a year ago. Near neighbors were aroused about 1 o'clock by a number of pistol shots, and the police were promptly notified. The murderer entered from the door, and first killed the dead body of Thomas Smith, who had probably received his wound upstairs and had succeeded in reaching the lower landing. Then he shot at a boy, A. J.

had entered his forehead. He was the eldest of the children, of which there were five.

Mrs. Smith was found in bed. The indications were that she was shot while asleep. The ball entered the right temple. All the children occupied rooms in the attic, the second floor being used for general domestic purposes. Thomas slept alone. Willie, aged 12, and Augustus, aged

7, slept together in a room by themselves. Willie was shot through the body.

The wound will in all probability prove fatal. Augustus was shot in the chest. The physicians think his recovery possible. The boy Charles, aged 5 years, was slightly wounded. He was in bed with his little sister Mabel, one year younger. Rosenberg jumped from a window after accomplishing his bloody work, and was thought for some time to have escaped, but his dead body was found shortly afterward in the court, about 600 feet from the scene of the murders. There was no wound, and it is supposed that he died either in a fit or by poison.

Rosenberg was the husband of Charles

Smith's sister, who died a few years ago.

He had several children of own living in

Bow street court, Somerville.

MICHIGAN TRAGEDIES.

Two Men Fatally Injured in Public Instigation.

JONIA, Mich., July 15.—This usually peaceful town was disturbed by two terrible tragedies Friday, one in the State insane asylum, the other in the House of Correction. John Algren, an insane, seized a butcher knife while in the asylum kitchen, and stabbed James T. Jackson to the heart, the wounded man falling dead with the knife sticking in his body.

Trouble has existed between

George Dwight and Charles Stanley, two men confined in the house of correction.

Friday Dwight approached Stanley's cell working, and the latter, who had a man who was working there in the back it was not Stanley, however. A desperate struggle ensued between the wounded man and his assailant. The noise of the struggle attracted a crowd of convicts and several keepers, whom the infuriated assassin kept at bay for a short time. Many, the wounded man, is not expected to live.

PLAYED HIS LAST CARD.

An Old and Well-Known Gambler and Sport Kills Himself.

CHICAGO, July 15.—Frank H. Tiernan, one of the best known sports and gamblers in the city, played his last card. He killed himself at Gore's hotel some time last evening or during the night.

Tiernan occupied parlor H, and there the chambermaid found him this morning.

Terms reasonable. Particulars may be obtained at Dr. G. W. Chittenden's residence, 111 North Academy street.

—The antics of a young couple in the court house park this afternoon shocked the modesty of a South Main street grocer to such an extent that he will be confined to his home for an indefinite period. This park is becoming famous as a lovers' retreat and it would be all right provided the young men didn't demonstrate their personal feelings so much that it interferes with business on the adjacent streets.

—In a game of base ball on Saturday afternoon the High School Nine suffered defeat at the hands of the Mount Pleasant Kids, the score being 27 to 12. Barker and Wood composed the battery of the Mount Pleasant's and Charles Slightman and Baldwin occupied the same positions for the Janesville's. The feature of the game, outside the large score showing of the country boys, was the batting of Fales, of the home club.

—Mr. J. T. Wright organized a Sunday school at the Rock river school house three weeks ago with twenty-nine members. The school is under the superintendence of Truman L. Hollister, and its growth has been wonderful. Eighty-two members are now enrolled on the list, and the school house is hardly large enough to hold those who attend. There must have been good seed sown there.

—Mr. F. M. Hibbard was taking Dr. M. G. Hodge to LaPrairie grange hall yesterday afternoon. When they reached the farm of Mr. Fales about three miles distant from the city, the horse began to stagger and before it had gone another rock dropped dead. Heart disease probably caused the death of the animal. A gentleman from a neighboring house took Dr. Hodge to his destination and brought him back to the city toward evening.

—A private letter from Mr. H. S. Hogoboom, dated Campbell, Minn., July 12th, to a friend in this city, mentions that on the previous day during a severe storm, his barn was struck by lightning and totally destroyed by fire. Mr. Hogoboom succeeded in saving his stock. He had an insurance of one thousand dollars, yet is quite a loser by the fire. He also says that crops never appeared better, or with a promise of a better yield. He has 900 acres awaiting the reaper.

—Chief Engineer Blunk, with members of the committee on fire and water took the hose companies down to the fourth ward this afternoon for the purpose of testing the water pressure from the stand-pipe in case of fire in the neighborhood of St. Patrick's church. Two lines of hose were laid, one of 450 and one of 500 feet. The test was very satisfactory, both hose streams were of sufficient force to do good work on the church property, or on any residence property in that vicinity.

—The annual picnic of the Concordia Society will be held at Crystal Springs this week Friday. Games of various kinds will be indulged in during the afternoon. The Bower City Band will furnish music and Smith & Anderson's Orchestra has been engaged to furnish music for the dance in the evening. Both the Enterprise and Billy Budd have been chartered for the occasion, thus making excellent facilities for getting to and from Crystal Springs. The public is cordially invited, and all who attend may be sure of a genuine good time.

—In the municipal court to-day the case of the city vs. Charles T. Wilcox, came up for trial before Judge Peterson. The charge was that Mr. Wilcox had obstructed the streets by putting sand and gravel in a gutter on South River street. A fine of five dollars and costs was imposed on the defendant. The case of the State vs. Ingalls and Hall for assault and battery also came up for trial. The complainant was Andrew Gilligan. The defendants paid costs and the case dismissed. Wm. Kallihan, who was arrested by Marshal Hogan last Saturday for being drunk, was also brought before Judge Peterson.

—A lively runaway took place this morning on East Milwaukee street in the vicinity of the Myers house. "Gail" Simon came over from a lumber yard in a road cart attached to a three-year-old colt. He stopped in front of "Dick" Simon's saloon and handed an envelope to a man to take to his son. The colt got the ring of his bits caught on the end of one of the shafts, began to pull back and broke his bridle. He started east on Milwaukee street, and at the first crossing a man ran out and shook his store pipe hat at the horse, thinking to stop him with this; the horse turned and threw Mr. Simon to the ground, hurting his forehead and arm in a severe manner. The horse broke away again and ran further up the street where he was finally caught.

—The Value of an Egyptian Girl's Gold Necklace is the title of an article by Rev. Dr. Charles B. Robinson, contributed to the forthcoming August number of St. Nicholas. In lecturing on Egypt recently, Dr. Robinson exhibited a necklace taken from a mummy, and to help the boys and girls who were present to realize what a great while ago 363 hundred years must be, he asked them to make this calculation: How much would the money which bought the gold chain, if it had been American money put out at compound interest for thirty-six hundred years at six per cent., amount to to-day, if the original price had been twenty dollars? The St. Nicholas article contains several answers to this problem, but it may be said that they cannot be read. For convenience in reckoning, it may be assumed that the amount will double itself every twelve years.

HE PREFERRED A "TIE" FASH.

HOW A WEST SIDE VISITOR CHOSE BETWEEN TWO EVILS.

Not long since, a lank, spare, tall, lean, drowsy looking gentleman came to the city for the purpose of spending a few weeks in recreation, and where he thought there might be a shadow of a chance to secure board on credit. He was a man possessed of considerable cheek, and evidently well acquainted with the modern speculative inventions of the age, so he externally contrived for the sole purpose of getting the best of somebody. It was the old problem of trying to secure a living at somebody else's expense, and at the same time try to pass yourself for a gentleman. It frequently works satisfactorily for a time, but in this instance it was an unprecedented failure.

The new arrival walked into the business office of a west side hotel, registered, hung up his hat, threw his coat on a chair, planted himself on a sofa and calmly waited the arrival of the dinner hour. All this time the landlord had an eye open to business. He was watching his guest in a manner which made the new comer uneasy. His careful scrutiny of the wearing apparel and general appearance of the individual made him feel that although there was probably no place like home, yet perhaps this wasn't home.

At other times he had managed to pass himself for a politician or an invalid seeking health, or perhaps as a postoffice inspector, but the "dodge" is no good here," he thought to himself as he turned over on the sofa and tried to console himself to sleep with the thought that he might awake and find himself in the midst of a beautiful garden, etc.

The dinner bell rang. What was to be done? The wanderer arose, put on a brave face and proceeded toward the dining hall.

"See here, sir! pay in advance, please," said the landlord, tapping him on the shoulder.

"Excuse me, I unfortunately left my purse at Esplanade," said the unfortunate, "but I have telegraphed for it and it will be here to-morrow."

"Now that won't do," said the enraged host. Now that up, or put up, I can't be bothered with any more of you people, you are the fourth or fifth within a week. You may do one of two things, I'll either send you down for the marshal, or present you with the pass which you can use immediately."

This brought the proceeding to a focus, and the stipulator of strikes and anarchy left as quickly, and unconcerned as he ever was, and he had come here to the Evansville out of his head some hopeful and buoyant but an hour before.

EXTENDING THEIR BUSINESS.

SMITH & GATELEY EXTENDING BRANCH COAL YARDS IN COUNTRY TOWNS.

As an evidence of the popularity of the new firm of Smith & Gateley, dealers in coal, wood, ice, etc., and their determination to accommodate their many customers in the country, the Gazette will now note the fact that they have established branch coal yards in Lums, Milton Junction, Shopiere, Atton, Hancock, Fortville and Evansville, at all of which places will be found at all times a full supply of the best coal for farmers and others at the lowest market rates. Aside from establishing the seven branch yards as above, Messrs. Smith & Gateley have greatly enlarged their West Milwaukee street yards, which, with their large yards on North Bluff street, enables the firm to handle immense quantities of fuel at the very lowest living margins. No firm in the interior has better facilities for handling fuel, and they are determined to keep up with the times in everything. Success to them. They are hustlers in their business.

SUNDAY IN JANESVILLE.

It Was an Exceedingly Unpleasant Day, but Each

CHURCH WAS ATTENDED

By Good Sized Audiences—Interesting Themes Discussed by the City Pastors.

THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

REV. S. P. WILDER PREACHES ON MORALS AND GOOD ORDER IN JANESVILLE.

Rev. S. P. Wilder preached the fourth and last of a series of sermons on "Morals and Good Order in Janesville," at the Congregational church yesterday morning.

He began by asking the question, "Who is responsible?"

The improvement in our moral condition rests upon those who are in power and upon those who hold the reins of government. Two of the few, brave, fearless men who are determined to do right, this talk about waiting for public sentiment is all nonsense. The outcome of the whole matter rests with a few brave, noble men who are willing to take a stand for the right. These men will command a large following of those who are "astirred the fence," and those who are hiding and dodging the question would all come forward when they found that this was the popular side.

Mr. Wilder was not disposed to put all the blame on the saloon men, as he held that those who patronized the bar were equally culpable. Those who run the Sunday boats are no worse than those who patronize them. Those who sell goods on Sunday were no worse than those who bought. There should be an organized force to bring about a reform, as all those who try to bring it about single-handed, will ultimately fail.

AT CHRIST CHURCH.

EXTRACTS FROM A SERMON PREACHED SUNDAY MORNING BY REV. H. BALDWIN, DEAN.

At Christ church, yesterday morning, Rev. H. Baldwin Dean took for his text, "The Earnest Expectation of the Creature Waiteth for the Manifestation of the Sons of God."

"Do we rightly conceive of the relation between man and the lower creatures of creation? Do we as Christians take the Bible view of that relation?"

If we turn to the story of creation we find that to man was given "dominion" over the fish of the sea, over the fowls of the air and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth. "Replenish the earth and subdue it," was the command of God to the newly created man. That word "replenish" means not simply to populate the earth, to fill it full of inhabitants by propagation of the species, but it means that man should, by his development, complete the earth. The earth was made for man and man was made for the earth. They are to each other as kingdom and king, as vessel and captain, as locomotive to engineer, each incomplete without the other. Each bound to the other by the laws of his existence. Joined to each other by the mighty hand of God not to be put asunder.

We have been so much in the habit of talking about leaving the world at death, about renouncing the world the flesh and the devil. So much addicted to thinking of heaven as some locality far removed from this earth, that we have come to look upon this earth as the place of a mere bivouac, that we have in a very great measure lost sight of the truth that this world is our own, only true dwelling place, and enjoyment place, and reigning place. We forget that when God made it, and put man into it, all was "good"; that means delightful, glorious, blessed. We fail to notice that God set his creative genius at work to produce a world in which man, his best loved creature, could enjoy himself supremely and eternally.

You may ask, then why is so much said in the New Testament about giving up the world, and fighting against the world?

The answer is, in all these passages the term world stands for the world as it is, the sinful ways of eating, drinking and living.

You may ask again, "How did this world get into such a bad way as that in which we now find it?"

The answer is through man's sin. The man failed to "replenish," to complete the earth and to fulfill its conditions as God had intended them, so the whole innocent earth suffered for it.

St. Paul says in this connection, the creature was made subject to vanity (that is, was perverted, wrested from its original purpose and condition) not willingly, but by reason of him (God) who subjected the same in hope. By man came the wretchedness and misery of the world, and through man it shall be restored to more than its original glory and blessedness.

Can you imagine any more delightful place for man than this earth would be, as he did with Adam in the Garden, could there be any better heaven?

This was the heaven which St. Peter had in mind when, in his sermon at the beautiful gate of the temple, he spoke of "The times of RESTITUTION of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." Acts 3:21.

This justifies the assertion of St. Paul in this connection that "The whole creature groaneth and travaileth in pain to itself until now; because the creature itself shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the sons of God."

This is the hope of all creation, to be delivered from evil through man. That word "earnest" signifies with head erect as when an animal listens intently. As the startled stag listens for the second sound of the hunters foot among the dry leaves of the forest floor.

The apostle personifies all creation as being in one being intently, longingly, patiently waiting for the better order of things in this world which only man can bring in.

The domestic animals pathetically submit to all man's tyranny, as if they too said to themselves "I reckon that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us," through this man. The wild beasts fear the man more and more. The vegetable world whispers to itself of the hope it has in humanity, and even the voiceless hills and mountains are cherishing a secret hope that very soon the great change shall come when, as the Psalmist says, "the mountains shall bring peace to the people and the little hills by righteousness."

But you will ask, is there any proof of all this claim. Many of the scripture proofs I have already cited. Such as those that show how man was created the ruler of earth and that earth was involved in his ruin. The prophets have intimated that all this shall be reversed when man is redeemed.

But is there anything in human experience to corroborate the prophecies of scripture that the man shall redeem the earth? Take this fact: Wherever man operates on nature she becomes plastic under his hand and is improved. Wherever man tills the soil the land is stronger. Whatever vegetable man cultivates, he makes it better than it was naturally. Even climates are altered by habitation and cultivation. New life is given to all things. The five leaved wild rose becomes the centifolia, or the Jacquemont of the hot house. The tobacco plant is made to grow and thrive far above its natural latitude here in Wisconsin. Did you ever know that a cultivated flower is stronger, has more life? Wild flowers fade in an hour, but cultivated blossoms will sometimes last for days. Man's manipulation has put strength into them.

You often hear people speak of the strength and swiftness of the wild horse. Any ordinary heavy horse will pull six hundred pounds, and kill the wild horse by his side before night. A pair of your famous Norman, or Clydesdale horses would pull as much as six wild horses, and as for swiftness, any well-bred Kentucky saddle horse will take a man on his back and run down the fleetest of the mustangs in an hour.
